CELEBRITY	CELEBRITY BIO
WILLOW WINSLET Nominated for Best Actress in a lead Role	A former Broadway star, Willow has gained a lot of attention lately with the box office smash movie Cake Catastrophe about a baker that nearly loses everything by ruining a million-dollar birthday cake for a billionaire's birthday party. She is currently nominated for her leading role in the movie for Best Actress, but rumor has it that she doesn't stand a chance against her competition.
REESE LAWRENCE Nominated for Best Actress in a lead Role	Reese is a young actress from the Netherlands who bore her way into Hollywood a few years ago as a young teen on a kid's game show – You Can Certainly Do That on Television. She is an old soul and behaves in a mature manner, which makes her unconventional for her age. Reese is nominated for Best Actress in a Lead Role for the movie Gorgeous Giants. She's a frontrunner for her nomination – according to celebrity gossip sites.
EMMA PORTMAN Nominated for Best Actress in a lead Role	Hailing from Los Angeles, this Californian recently graced the big screen with her first leading role in the movie Welcome to Wonderland. Some have predicted her to be a one-and-done, but others say she's landed the lead role in another blockbuster movie that is currently being filmed in Alaska. Therefore, Emma may be the one to look out for this time. Emma is nominated for Best Actress in a Lead Role for her role of Gonzabee the Hat Maker. She's a total wild card – who knows if she really stands a chance?
SCARLETT KUNIS Nominated for Best Actress in a lead Role	Scarlett Kunis is an American actress from New York. She is a former Oster Award winner. She is a legend and one of the most influential people in the entertainment industry. However, Hollywood was shocked when the Arts Academy Award President went on record during an interview that he doesn't favor Scarlett for the Best Actress in a Lead Role this year. Scarlett played the lead role in the movie Big Adventures of Eddy Elf.
LILY STEINFELD Nominated for Best Actress in a lead Role	Lily's old Hollywood style and never-ending talent has earned her many nominations for prestigious awards – including her nomination for the Oster for Best Actress in a Lead Role. However, the media hasn't been too kind to her lately, and sources say this is eating her alive. Lily is nominated for her performance in Toxic Trolls: A Magical Journey Through Time, which is a story about a family of trolls who finds a time travel device buried in their backyard.
CHLOE STREEP Nominated for Best Actress in a lead Role	This Arts Academy Award winning starlet won her first Oster at a tender young age of ten. Her fans believe she is the most humble, sincere celebrity ever known. However, those closest to her have spoken of her violent temper tantrums when she doesn't get her way. Chloe is one of the prime choices for Best Actress in a Lead Role for her performance in the film as a human-frog hybrid named Helga in All the Queen's Animals.
ANGELINA DUNN Nominated for Best Actress in a Supporting Role	Eccentric is Angelina's middle name, or at least her face should be featured in the dictionary by the description. Angelina manages to maintain her good girl image, despite the tabloid articles that claim she is a huge troublemaker. Angelina has never won an award for acting before, so it should be interesting to see if she can win this year. She is nominated for her supporting role of a comedy sidekick reindeer named Jewels in the hit movie Big Adventures of Eddy Elf.
MILA DIAZ Nominated for Best Actress in a Supporting Role	Mila's career began on Broadway before she landed a featured role on the kid's television series called Mila Explains Everything. Eventually, she catapulted herself into uber-stardom playing the role as a super villain named Professor Bedlam in the Cat Man movie trilogy. Mila has the secret personality of a tyrant, but to the public, she's a shy, quiet and humbled celebrity. Mila is nominated for her supporting role in the hit movie Toxic Trolls: A Magical Journey Through Time.

KEKE ALBA Nominated for Best Actress in a Supporting Role	A former model for Beve Jean Co. , this rising young star originally hails from the UK. Keke is no stranger to the tabloids, as she can't stop stirring up controversy with social media wars with other celebrities. Smart as a whip, KeKe hides her academic achievements - but under her tough exterior, she is an utter genius. Keke has been nominated for her supporting role in the movie Cake Catastrophe where she played a bumbling baking assistant.
KATE JOHANSSON Nominated for Best Actress in a Supporting Role	Kate Johansson hails from Australia and is dying to break into Hollywood and one day, earn her own star on Hollywood Boulevard. Kate is a rising star in the land of Oz, and is more than excited to capture her first American Oster Award for Best Actress in a Supporting Role. She was nominated for her performance as a villainous bee in the movie All the Queen's Animals – which is also nominated for Best Picture this year.
REBEL COLLINS Nominated for Best Actress in a Supporting Role	A former leader of an all-girl pop group who branched off into solo glory for many years, Rebel has finally settled into a Hollywood film career. Rebel is known for her outrageous fashion and sassy posts on social media. Rebel has been nominated for the Best Actress in a Supporting Role for her performance in the film Welcome to Wonderland – a tale about a crazy hat maker who gets lost in a wacky world.
JENNIFER STONE Nominated for Best Actress in a Supporting Role	Jennifer Stone started her career as a child in the hit television series Bubba & Friends about a purple dinosaur who befriended a neighborhood of children. In recent times, she's been landing the lead roles in many hit Hollywood films. However, she's never won an Oster Award, and was nominated for Best Actress in a Supporting Role in Gorgeous Giants - a film she just did as a favor for a director.
HAILEE HEPBURN Nominated for Best Picture	After launching her acting career in the commercial scene, this Hollywood starlet is now one of the top rated actresses on the big screen. Hailee is super friendly on the surface, but behind the scenes, her altered ego takes control. Watch out for this two-faced vixen. Hailee is attending the Oster Awards in support of the movie, Pingo Pongo , that has been nominated for Best Picture. She played the lead role of a Dalmatian in the movie, but was not nominated for her performance.
COCO BULLOCK Nominated for Best Picture	A somewhat late bloomer as compared to her peers, Coco Bullock became an overnight movie star with the release of the movie series Vampires at Dawn . She's is a quirky trendsetter that can do no wrong in the eyes of her fans. She is attending the Oster Awards in support of the movie All the Queen's Animals . She played a supporting role as a human-pig hybrid in the movie.
ELLE WITHERSPOON Nominated for Best Picture	Elle's claim to fame is starring in the Harvard Spotter movie series about witches and wizards since she was a child. Now, she is branching out into more adult style movie roles and is reportedly having a difficult time with the transition. Elle is attending the Oster Awards in support of the movie Welcome to Wonderland that has been nominated for Best Picture. Elle played the role of a tea-drinking mouse in the film, but was not nominated for an award for her performance.
ALEXA FANNING Nominated for Best Picture	A former reality star, Alexa Fanning has made her home on the television screen in a series called Elegant Thieves . Alexa's pretty mug can often be seen at grocery checkout lines, as she is a popular choice for the cover of teen mags. Alexa played her first big screen role in the movie Cake Catastrophe as a billionaire birthday girl. She is attending the Oster Awards in support of the film, as it has been nominated for Best Picture. However, she was not nominated for her performance in the film.
