Guest List

AUSTIN ALDA

Movie Star

From comedic characters to romantic lead roles on the big screen, Austin has one of the most famous faces worldwide. Away from the film lot, Austin is a perpetual outcast, a rebel against the societal norms. Born in Neptune City, New Jersey, Austin's mother owned a beauty parlor, and his/her father was a magician. Considered a former 'class clown' from high school, Austin blossomed the nonconformist attitude into an astounding, award-winning film career. Austin often leans on walls, people, or other objects and takes up to five catnaps a day. Austin claims to work too hard, but sources say this superstar's just plain lazy.

MORGAN RONSTADT

D. J. of Studio 78

Born in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Morgan Ronstadt received a degree in journalism in Chicago but then turned course and became a radio talk show host in Dallas, Texas. Morgan later became a freelance disc jockey and could be heard over the air in the USA and Mexico. Morgan has also written songs for famous artists and has collaborated on a few projects with big bands in the studio. Morgan landed the coveted gig at Studio 78 but still hosts a morning talk show that scoops anything scandalous that happens in town. Don't tell Morgan your secrets unless you want them aired over the radio waves.

HENNER WELCH

VIP Host, Studio 78 Flower Lounge

Henner Welch grew up in Canada, but upon turning eighteen, moved to New York City to train at the elite school of the Parson School of Hospitality Management. Henner is one of the most proper and formal people you will ever meet. Henner will help organize and facilitate all necessary arrangements for the guests of the VIP Flower Lounge suite of Studio 78. Henner has a phenomenal work ethic, attention to detail, and isn't afraid to think outside the box. Henner refuses to use contractions while speaking and has a problem with staring. Henner claims s/he is merely assessing the situation.

MERCURY MCQUEEN

Movie Star

Mercury McQueen is arguably the greatest and most influential performer of the seventies. Mercury is the founder of 'modus acting,' where the actor or actress presumes their character's identity around the clock until filming has wrapped for the project. Mercury is a bit of a booster and continually talks about their amassed wealth, talent, and natural good lucks. Mercury often checks their appearance, as they cannot afford for one hair to be out of place. Mercury is not the most likable star but is one of the most memorable.

KEATON ALLEY

VIP Host, Studio 78 Groove Lounge

Keaton Alley is the child of a long-time family friend of Hans Durden. Hans handed Keaton the job as the VIP Host for the Groove Lounge - skipping over 1100 applications from qualified individuals. Keaton is shaping out to be a mistake, as there is nothing refined or proper about this host who lacks even the tiniest shred of ambition. Hans has agreed to give Keaton a shot at opening night. Still, if there are any complaints - Keaton's job as the host will be automatically terminated, and they will join the custodial service department.

JACKIE REDFORD

Movie Star

Jackie Redford was born in the East Harlem neighborhood of New York City to a car salesman father and a mother who was a homemaker. Jackie had their debut role only a decade ago with the hit movie Diary of an Assassin. Jackie stars in silver screen flicks and has also scored leading roles on the stages of Broadway. Jackie is intense and tightly-clenched and has been typecast into playing only ultra-serious roles. Jackie refuses to look anyone in the eye but is exceptionally outgoing. This celeb will look past people while talking and never acknowledges anyone standing nearby. This behavior can be daunting.

CICEL BASINGER

Bartender, Studio 78 West Bar

Known for wild concoctions served as delicious beachside cocktails, Cicel was one of the most famous bartenders in the country - having been featured in an array of food, wine, and travel magazines. Cicel is used to catering to the well-to-do. Nevertheless, the change of lifestyle from an elaborate Tiki bar on the beautiful shores of Maui, Hawaii, to the dark and bustling atmosphere of a city hotspot is becoming a bit much to handle for this mixologist - and the nightclub hasn't even opened yet. Who knows if Cicel will stay at Studio 78? Only time will tell.

PAT NICHOLSON

Singer, Movie Star

Pat began their illustrious career by performing in nightclubs and Broadway theaters in the early 1960s. After many guest appearances on various television shows, Pat was signed with Wavier Records and released a debut album Pat Sings. After becoming an established recording artist, Pat ventured into film by the early seventies. Pat sometimes will speak in a singsong voice instead of using a regular cadence. This becomes awkward quite fast.

SAMMY PARTON

Movie Star & Filmmaker

Born in San Francisco as the child of a manufacturing executive and a nurse, Sammy had a comfortable middle-class upbringing but always longed to be rich and famous. Sammy found interest in theater as a teen and grew bored of school, which held Sammy back a grade twice. Upon turning eighteen, Sammy quit high school and moved to Hollywood, landing a few uncredited parts in movies before being discovered and catapulting to A-list status. Sammy's directorial debut was a decade ago with the hit movie Diary of an Assassin. Today, Sammy's a Hollywood icon. A slender person, Sammy always has something to snack on. Sammy claims they have a high metabolic rate and must keep up by munching on nibbles all day.

STEVIE HAWN

Movie Star

A star of U.S. cinema, Stevie Hawn carved their name into American pop culture as a lovable action figure and wisecracking sidekick. Stevie was born in Lansing, Michigan, and was the child of the chief of police. Stevie aspired to become a professional tennis player until a bicycle accident permanently injured a knee. That's when this star grew interested in acting. After high school, Stevie worked in greasy spoon diners while playing bit parts on television until finally being discovered by one of Hollywood's biggest talent agents. This icon has endless energy. Stevie's continually twiddling their fingers and fidgeting in their seat, and it's challenging to keep this star pinned down for long.

ROBIN EASTWOOD

Movie Star, Fashion Model

With a career spanning decades, Robin Eastwood is best known for portraying bold characters on the big screen. Born to a carpenter father and pastry chef mother in Boston, Robin was first discovered by a Cosmo Magazine photographer and became a successful fashion model. In the fifties, Robin broke into television by landing a recurring role on Leave it to Lucy. Robin always must criticize everything. Nothing is ever good enough for this icon, so no matter how ideal things seem to most – Robin will find something worth a complaint.

BILLY COOPER

Singer, Television Star

Born in Detroit, Michigan, to parents who owned a movie theater, Billy rose to fame as the lead singer of The Bees, who became Wavier Records' most successful band of the sixties and one of the world's best-selling musical acts of all times. Following departure from The Bees in 1971, Billy embarked on a phenomenally successful, global solo career in music and television. Billy Cooper is always chipper and tends to snort when they laugh. Billy is also ready to do impromptu performances for anyone who asks.

LENNON TYLER ROSS

Television Star, Model

Lennon grew up in a small town, raised by grandparents in southern Louisiana. Lennon was born with a yearning to be a celebrity and worked their way to the top with hard work and dedication. Lennon Tyler Ross is best known as the star of the American live-action television series Righter of Wrongs in the role of Miracle – a protagonist based on the DC Marco comic book character of the same name on RBC TV from 1971 to 1977. Utilizing the T.V. series' fame, Lennon was able to sign a deal with Vandelay Automobiles to become their spokesperson and model for their ad campaigns. Lennon loves to pretend they are a hero in real life. If anything so much as borderline criminal takes place nearby, Lennon will spring to action as the character Miracle and save the day.

TERRY MCCORMICK

Bartender, Studio 78 East Bar.

Terry McCormick has been secretly meeting with Hans Durden over the last year, planning to surprise his/her current employer by leaving without notice and moving to Studio 78 as the head bartender of the club's East Bar. The rival club owner, Buggy Cain, has done everything possible to thwart Han's new nightclub opening to prevent any competition to his longstanding hotspot, the Capodanno Club - which happens to be on the same street as Studio 78. Terry is sneaky and cannot be trusted. Will Terry remain loyal to Hans? Nobody knows the answer to this, but everyone should watch their backs around this backstabbing drink maker.

MICKY HUTTON

Movie Star

Micky Hutton has appeared in fourteen hit films and has won numerous awards. Due to Micky's humanitarian efforts, Timeless Magazine has named Micky one of the world's most influential people. The eldest child of a famous Australian director, John Hutton, and Irish actress, Maureen O'Malley, Micky had a strict upbringing in Beverly Hills, California. After countless hours of local theater as a teenager, Micky was first recognized for playing the leading role in the 1964 movie Old Timers. Since the breakthrough, Micky has had steady work. Micky has no filter and will blurt out whatever is on their mind. Most people find this behavior to be off-putting and offensive.

HALSTON JAGGER

Movie Star

Halston was born in Cloquet, Minnesota. Halston's father was a traveling salesman, and his/her mother was a homemaker. Halston is one of nine children and had to develop their talent to stand out. It worked, and Halston is one of the biggest, still rising stars of 1978. Halston Jagger has broken the record and received the highest honor of winning two Oster's, an Emma award, and three Golden Orb Awards in only four years of a career. Halston made their debut with the film Giant Invaders of 1974. Halston Jagger speaks at an abnormally slow pace and excessively uses their hands to help describe things.

CHARLIE CANNON

English Singer/Songwriter

Charlie Cannon hails from London, England, and is a singer, songwriter who has gained worldwide fame as the lead singer and founder of the band, The Rollie Pollies. Charlie's career has spanned over two decades. Charlie has been described as one of the most prominent and famous rock & roll singers. Charlie has a distinctive voice and is known for energetic live performances. Charlie is continually checking the time – even when there isn't anything else on the day's schedule. For this reason, Charlie's nickname is White Rabbit.

LEE FISHER

Television Star, Comic

Lee Fisher was born in Washington, D.C., to a jewelry shop mother and a band director father. In high school, Lee starred in a school play and received such glowing reviews over the performance in the local newspaper - it was no time before talent agents were knocking on Lee's door. Lee Fisher rose to fame in the sixties on the CBC sketch comedy show Chuckles. Lee made many television appearances on shows as a standup comic, which landed Lee many more television roles as a comedic sidekick. Lee snaps their fingers when they tell a joke to emphasize the punchline and signal it's time to laugh. Albeit, sometimes only crickets respond.
